

M'MILLAN RITES ARE HELD IN CITY

Funeral Tributes Paid Late Representative of First District

Funeral services for Thomas Sanders McMillan, of Charleston, member of the United States house of representatives from the First South Carolina congressional district, were conducted yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the Citadel Square Baptist church.

The Rev. William R. Pettigrew, pastor of the church, officiated. Burial was in Magnolia cemetery, directed by Connelley's.

Mr. McMillan died unexpectedly Friday afternoon at his residence, 171 Moultrie street, of a heart attack. He was home for a few days, and was preparing to return today to Washington to resume attendance at the special session of congress.

More than 1,000 persons, filling all standing seats in the church and available outside, heard Mr. Pettigrew's last remarks to Mr. McMillan. He praised the congressman for his "leadership and honesty, for which thousands of persons love him and feel his death a personal loss."

He said "it often is better for a man to die while in harness than for him to reach an age when he is forced to sit on the sidelines and watch the procession of progress, without having contributed to it."

Delegations from Fort Moultrie and the navy yard were present. Company G, of Fort Moultrie, furnished the guard of honor. Staff Sergeant Bollinger, of the band, blew "Taps."

The bier was rolled from the church by the active pallbearers, Dr. T. Hutson Martin, Postmaster Philip M. Clement, L. Harry Mixson, James B. Hayward and Alfred H. von Kolnitz, all of Charleston, and Leonard A. Hall, of Beaufort, Honorary Pallbearers.

As the funeral cortege moved from the church, a light rain began. By the time the procession reached Magnolia cemetery, the shower had turned into a heavy downpour. Disregarding the rainfall, hundreds of persons gathered with bared heads beside the grave for the final rites and the commitment.

Honorary pallbearers were United States Senators Ellison D. Smith and James F. Byrnes, of South Carolina; Representatives Hampton P. Fulmer and James P. Richards, of South Carolina; William M. Colmer, of Mississippi; William L. Caldwell, of Florida; Governor Burnet R. Maybank; Mayor Henry W. Lockwood; Eugene F. Peoples, of Hampton, and Kenneth Romney, sergeant-at-arms of the national house of representatives. Senator Byrnes was unable to be here.

Also, Jack K. McCall, secretary of the house appropriations committee; Rear Admiral William H. Allen, commander of the national navy yard; Lieutenant Colonel Philip S. Gage, commanding the coast artillery unit at Fort Moultrie.

Also the following state senators from the counties of First district: Allendale, James M. Thomas; Beaufort, W. Brantley Harvey; Berkeley, Marvin M. Murray; Charleston, Cotesworth P. Means; Colleton, Richard M. Jefferies; Dorchester, James D. Roper; Hampton, George Warren; Jasper, William J. Ellis; and Clarendon, Taylor H. Stukes.

Many others known in the official life of Charleston and the state generally were in attendance. Joseph Fromberg, an assistant to the attorney general in Washington, was among those here.

Mr. McMillan literally "died with his boots on." He had held office since March 4, 1929, having been elected eight times in succession. Last summer, forbidden by his physician to make the campaign, he secured reelection without extensive personal campaigning.

He had been in ill health for a number of years, suffering from heart attacks from time to time. After his reelection his health apparently had improved and he had just returned from a trip to Europe, where he attended the International Monetary Union conference in Oslo, Norway. He and Mrs. McMillan were in Copenhagen the day of the invasion of Poland by Germany.

As soon as he returned to the United States, he had to attend the special session of congress called by President Roosevelt to consider neutrality legislation. Since the legislation had been passed by the house, the house rejected the senate should take action. Mr. McMillan came to Charleston last Tuesday and intended going back to Washington Monday for the resumption of the session.

His Work Known Here

Mr. McMillan had a host of friends both in private and public life. It was a familiar expression in public circles whenever "one of the boys" was mentioned.

Deaths and Funerals

CAPTAIN GRANT SHEPHERD
Captain Grant Shepherd, who formerly resided in Charleston for two years, died Saturday in Durham, N. C., hospital, friends here learned. He was buried yesterday afternoon at Hillsboro, N. C., where he was residing.

Captain Shepherd was sixty-four years of age. He was a native of Washington, son of Alexander Robey Shepherd, former governor of the District of Columbia, later of Hacienda San Miguel, Batopilas, Chihuahua, Mexico.

During the World war, Captain Shepherd served in France at the head of Company E, Twenty-third United States infantry, in the line south of Verdun, at Chaumont and Chateau Thierry. He was wounded repeatedly in action near Villers Coterets, Soissons. He was awarded the Distinguished Service Cross and the Croix de Guerre with palm.

He attended the University of the South and took mining engineering at Columbia university for some years he mined silver in Batopilas. His widow survives. She is the former Miss Mary Exum of North Carolina.

BELVERLY JOHNSON
Darlington, Oct. 1.—Special: News was received in Darlington this morning of the death of Belverly Johnson, eighty-one, a brother of Mrs. Lucy O. Arnold, eighty-five, who is quite ill at the home of her son, M. W. Arnold, on West Broad street. Mr. Johnson died at his home in Roanoke, Va., today after an extended illness.

He was born in Franklin county, Va., March 22, 1858, the son of the late John Webster Johnson and Mary Elizabeth Johnson, of Virginia. He was a retired farmer, and was formerly a member of the United States Senate. He was a member of the United States Senate from 1904 to 1912, and was a member of the United States Senate from 1912 to 1918.

On one occasion he left a sick bed in Washington to confer with President Hoover on retention of the Charleston navy yard, which was threatened with discontinuance.

Mr. McMillan was no rubber stamp. Although he favored the Roosevelt policies as a whole, only last month he expressed himself as being unfavorable to a third term for Roosevelt. He also opposed other policies of the administration when he thought them contrary to the interests of his constituents.

Mr. McMillan was fifty years old. He was elected to the house of representatives in Washington at the age of thirty-five. He was a native of Ulm, Allendale county, a part of the late Barnwell district, a son of the late James C. McMillan and Mrs. Mary Cave McMillan. He was educated at Orangeburg Collegiate Institute, at Orangeburg, South Carolina in the fall of 1908.

At the university he was elected to numerous offices of honor. He served as president of the junior academic and law classes and as a teamster for the junior-senior banquet. He was captain of the baseball team in his senior year and president of his literary society.

Played Professional Baseball

Prior to and after his graduation he played professional baseball during the summer and was a member of the Charleston club in the South Atlantic league in 1912-13, during which he led the team in batting and base running.

Immediately after his graduation he came to Charleston. He formed a law partnership with James B. Byrnes, and later with James B. Byrnes and James B. Byrnes. He continued his legal practice until 1924, when he was elected to congress.

In 1916, he was elected from Charleston county to the state house of representatives and continued a member until elected to congress. In 1921-22 he was speaker pro tempore and in 1923 was elected speaker, being the youngest member ever to serve a full term as speaker.

Surviving Mr. McMillan are his widow, who was before marriage Miss Clara Eloise Gooding, of Hampton; five sons, Thomas S. McMillan, James B. McMillan, George W. McMillan, and two others, and a daughter, Mrs. Clara Eloise Gooding, of Hampton.

COLLETON FLYING GROUP ORGANIZES

Aviation Association Hears Dexter Martin; Moorer Appoints Committees

Waterboro, Oct. 1.—Special: The Colleton aviation association, H. A. Moorer, Jr., president, held its second meeting this morning at the Hayne hotel.

Attending the meeting were Dexter C. Martin, director of the South Carolina Aeronautical commission, E. F. Markwood, assistant director, W. W. Watson, president of the state aeronautical club, and his son, W. W. Watson, Jr.

The guests flew from Columbia, returning later in the morning. At the business meeting, following breakfast, a constitution, prepared by H. Wayne Unger, local attorney, was adopted. Mr. Watson requested that Mr. Unger prepare a constitution and by-laws, to be presented at the state Aero club meeting, to be held at Laurens next Sunday, at which time the state organization will be perfected.

Dexter C. Martin told of the beginning of the state aeronautical commission, gave its setup and what had been accomplished. At present, this association has working equipment which is being used to improve the physical aspects of the state and also to attract the student training program now available in seven state colleges. He appealed for the cooperation of all state units.

Mr. Markwood told of the plans to assist all who are interested in aviation in the state and of the establishing of a state weather broadcasting service, operating from Columbia. Mr. Watson stressed the fact that the organization of the state aviation program was to promote aviation and safety in aviation. He urged safe and sane aviation, condemning stunt flying and air shows as being too dangerous and unnecessary for the healthy growth of private flying in the state.

President Moorer appointed the following committees: Development committee, Raymond Moore and Harold Smoak; this committee will aid in the developing of the local airport. Funds committee, David Hackney and Billy Moore; educational committee, Lucius Glover and Eddie Shaffer, Jr.; this committee to further the technical knowledge of the organization; H. Wayne Unger was appointed chairman by the president. The chairman will preside at all local meetings already held. Meetings twice a month. Members are not confined to pilots, but membership is open to any one who is interested in the furtherance of aviation.

Members attending the meeting this morning were H. A. Moorer, Jr., L. N. Glover, Jr., vice president, Frisbie Fishburne, secretary, and treasurer, H. Wayne Unger, Billy Moore, Eddie Shaffer, Jr., E. Stone, George Glover, Willie Colcock, Yemassee; W. W. Hinkleworth, George Sproul, Eberhardt Frisbie, Raymond Moore, Harold Frisbie, H. C. Hartung, W. W. Smoak, Jr., H. C. Hartung, and H. E. Dempsey, Ridgeland.

BURGLARY IS CHARGED
Charleston Man Accused of Stealing Clothes

Curtis Jenkins, of 5 Peckens court, last night was being held at police headquarters on charges of burglary and grand larceny. He will be given a hearing today before a city magistrate.

Jenkins was arrested Saturday midnight by Police Detectives John W. Sack and Milton S. Droze after he was alleged to have broken into the home of Thomas Williams, of 111 Spring street, stealing clothing valued at $40.

According to a report made by the detectives, Jenkins had part of the loot with him when taken into custody. The remainder, the report said, was recovered where he is said to have discarded it.

NEGRO WOMAN IS SLAIN
Clarendon Man Accused of Tossing Body in Road

Manning, Oct. 1.—Special: Tina Johnson, negro, was found dead early today on the Manning-Paxville road near Manning.

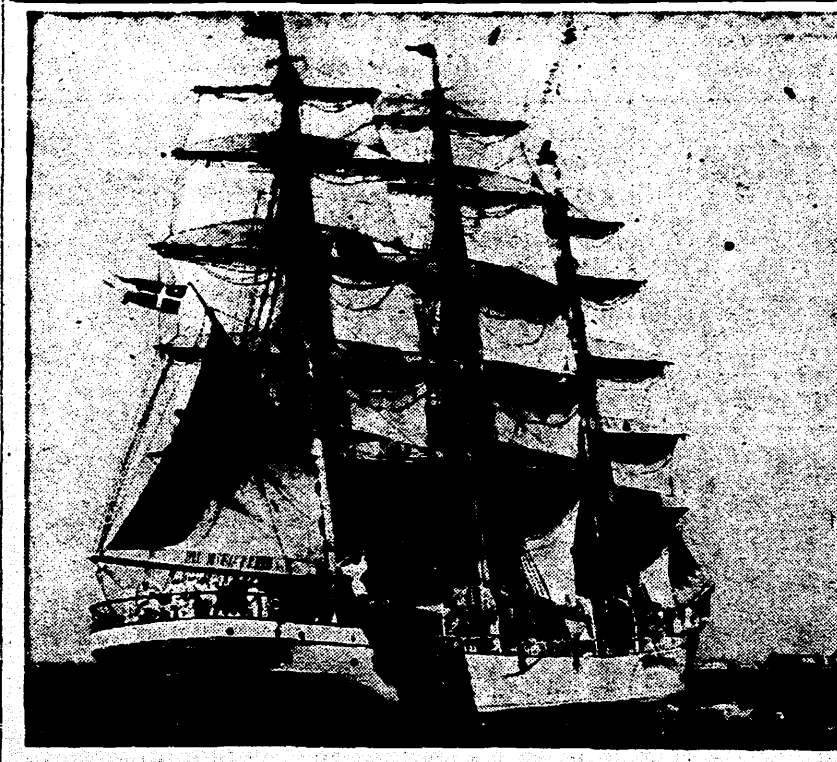

After an investigation of the case, James Davis, also a negro of the same neighborhood, was placed in the county jail and charged with her murder, according to the investigating officers. The story reported is the Johnson woman took Davis's pocketbook when they were walking together on the road. He struck her on the head and threw her body across the road. The body was run over by a car and a truck.

'Speak to Me of Love' Poilu Request Number, Nazi Says

Berlin, Oct. 1.—(GNS): Nazi radio propagandists seem to have discovered that a Frenchman's weakness is romance so tonight they broadcast the song "Parlez Moi d'Amour" (Speak to Me of Love) as an asserted request number for several poems in a Maginot line pill box.

The strange story of romantic thoughts amid the crashing roars of artillery was told in an official statement issued in Berlin.

Danmark Goes to the World's Fair

THE DANISH SCHOONSHIP DANMARK which visited Charleston in February, 1938, is shown in placid American waters far from the mine-infested channels off its homeland. The full-rigged, three-masted sailing vessel visited New York to mark Denmark's participation in the world's fair. The ship left Denmark August 8, a month ahead of schedule and required forty days to reach the United States under full sail.

Credit and Carry Provisions May Draw Main Senate Fire

Debate on Bill Will Open Today—Embargo May Yield Center of Stage—Adams Asks Transport Ban Apply Only to Arms

Washington, Oct. 1.—(P): A growing chorus of criticism of the credit and carry provisions of the neutrality bill indicated today that these sections might draw even greater points of contention than the arms embargo when the senate begins debate tomorrow.

Both sides on the question of repealing the ban on arms shipments to warring nations already have split over the proposal to grant ninety-day credits to belligerents and to require them to furnish transportation for their purchases.

Some supporters of the administration's request for repeal of the arms embargo have objected to permitting any credit whatsoever to belligerents. On the other hand, Senator Adams, Democrat, Colorado, who has announced he will vote to do away with the embargo, demanded today that the finance and transport restrictions apply only to purchase of war materials.

"It may be hard on us to do it, but I think it will be far less costly in the long run than getting into war," he declared.

Slaying of Two Investigated
Trenton, N. J., Oct. 1.—(P): A thirty-six-year-old mother and her married escort were slain in an unidentified assailant early today on "Duck Island," a short distance from the scene of a similar unsolved double murder last November.

The victims were identified by Richard P. Brettell, Hamilton township police chief, as Mrs. Katherine Warner and Frank Casper, twenty-eight. He said they lived with their respective families a few doors from each other in Trenton.

Peppered with shotgun pellets which entered her right arm, the woman died of a fractured skull caused by a blow from a blunt instrument. Casper was shot through the right side of the head and neck.

Brettell said several persons were questioned, including relatives of the slain pair, but that no arrests were made. He said no clues to the killer's identity were discovered immediately.

CHURCHILL HOLDS U-BOAT ASSAULT HAS BEEN FAILURE

Under their cruel yoke and have to be held down by main force.

"We have the oceans," he continued, "we have the freely-given, ardent support of the twenty millions of British citizens in the self-governing dominions of Canada, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa. We have the heart of moral convictions of India on our side."

Churchill said "Britain may take good heart" from the American civil war when "all the heroism of the South could not redeem their cause from the stain of slavery, just as all the courage and skill which the Germans always show in war, will not free them from the reproach of Nazism with its intolerance and brutality."

Churchill told those impatient for action "a large army has already gone to France. British armor upon the scale of the effort of the great war are in preparation."

Churchill said "I hope the day will come when the admiralty will be able to invite ships of all nations to join the British convoys."

outcome of Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano's visit to Berlin. Officials were silent on the subject of the visit but declared they regarded Italy as one of the "friendly powers" which Germany and Soviet Russia said they might ask to join efforts to settle the war.

Many Italians said they thought Mussolini might propose a five-power conference for settlement of the differences between Germany and the French-British allies.

Some diplomats expressed the opinion that an offer from Hitler might have some unusual feature since both sides seemed to agree there was not the slightest hope Britain and France would accept peace overtures on the basis of Poland's accomplished partition.

CONVENTION OPENS HERE WEDNESDAY

Leading Physicians Coming for Tuberculosis Conferences

Leading physicians, health officers and social workers from fifteen states will gather at the Francis Marion hotel Wednesday for the twenty-sixth annual meeting of the Southern Tuberculosis conference. The sessions will continue through Friday.

Visiting physicians from Northern states also are expected to attend the meeting, likely to be the largest gathering in the organization's history.

Governor Burnet R. Maybank is to deliver the address of welcome at a conference banquet Wednesday night. Mayor Henry W. Lockwood will extend greetings to the delegates, and Dr. Kendall Emerson, of New York, managing director of the National Tuberculosis association, and Dr. H. S. Mustard, professor of preventive medicine and director of laboratories at New York university, also will speak. Dr. W. Atmar Smith, of Charleston, president of the conference, will preside.

Registration of delegates will begin on the mezzanine floor of the hotel Wednesday morning, at 9 o'clock. A X-ray clinic, at which Dr. H. Frank Carman, of Dallas, Texas, conference vice president, will preside. Conductor will be Dr. Paul A. Turner, of Louisville.

During the afternoon, both medical and non-medical sessions will convene. Dr. Paul P. McCain, of Sanatorium, N. C., will preside at the medical session, opening at 2 p. m. Dr. Mustard will discuss "The Management of Pulmonary Tuberculosis." This topic will be divided into seven problems, each of which will be undertaken separately by different physicians.

Discussion of these topics will be led by Dr. J. D. Riley, of Booneville, Ark., and Dr. Leo F. Hall, of State Park.

The session for lay workers in the public health field will be presided over by Mrs. May Fynchon, of Jacksonville. The Christmas Seal Sale, which will be during the Thanksgiving season, will be given attention. Among those included on the program for discussion of tuberculosis are Mrs. Ashley Halsey, executive secretary of the local association.

The medical members will meet again Thursday morning at 9 o'clock with Dr. James A. Price, of Memphis, presiding. Further discussions of tuberculosis will be taken up at this time. Dr. Kendall Emerson will open the non-medical session Thursday morning, with Miss Pansy Nichols, of Austin, Texas, presiding.

There will be a general session of both sections Thursday night at 8 o'clock, at which time "Tuberculosis in the Medical Curricula" and "Teaching Tuberculosis in High Schools" will be discussed. Dr. William H. Moncrief, of State Park, will preside.

The sessions will be concluded Friday morning with a general session of both sections. Speakers will be Dr. Horton C. Harris, of Nashville; Dr. Alex Brown, of New Orleans; Dr. K. C. Harper, of Richmond; Dr. Seaton Sailer, of Charleston, and Dr. C. Howard Marcy, of Pittsburgh.
