Roy, "Ed" Jamieson was born March 17, 1937 in Denver, Colorado. Ed grew up in a small house with his parents and three brothers. Ed was resourceful, so much that when he wanted his own room, he earned the money to buy the materials and actually added a room to the house. He did the normal things growing up in the Denver area, learning to hunt, fish, play baseball. Even a slight interest in engineering, well, if that is what you call constructing a means to get the principles car onto the roof of the high school.

Ed's interest in baseball bloomed when he was signed at the age of 18 to pitch for the New York Yankees. His career was off to a good start when an accident injured his arm ended his baseball life but created an opportunity for him to look in other directions for his future. He found a profession in water treatment.

His career path bought him to Las Vegas where he took an interest in golf, tennis, archery as well as in Marilyn and started his education in the arts taking up oil painting. Self taught, he developed into a fantastic painter. Ed proceeded to marry Marilyn and upon doing so, immediately grew his family from two daughters, Vickie and Loretta and son David, to add daughter Karen and son Rick. Ed was a great family man working to guide and mentor his family. His mentoring included not just life skills but his love of sports, teaching his children and grandchildren hunting, fishing, archery, golf, tennis and baseball, to mention a few. Being who he was, later in life he took on the role of surrogate father for another daughter, Janice.

Upon retirement, Ed and Marilyn moved to Star, Idaho. Once in star Ed continued his interest in oil painting and also took an interest in a new hobby, prospecting. He worked to sharpen his prospecting skills. Although he did not discover much gold, his life was richened by the time he spent searching for it with friends. Deciding that prospecting was a bit too easy, he put away those tools and took on wood carving. Specifically birds. He showed again his talent as a natural artist when he immediately produced incredible painted carvings.

Roy, "Ed" Jamieson passed away on Tuesday, January 16, 2018 of mesothelioma. He is beloved by many for his kind, gentle and quiet nature, speaking quietly but with definite meaning, warm personality. Ed is survived by his wife of 41 years, Marilyn as well as daughters Vickie, Loretta, Karen, Janice and son Rick. Grandchildren number 12 with 13 great grandchildren, with number 14 on the wall, all of whom will greatly miss him.

Although Ed would have appreciated the beauty of flowers he asks that those that are so inclined instead make a donation to your favorite charity.

There's still time to send flowers to the Graveside Service at the Star Cemetery at 12:30 PM on January 22, 2018.
