

Double Funeral For Hero Brothers

The bodies of two Quinny brothers, Sgt. Richard J. Quinny, Jr., and Sgt. James P. Quinny, both killed in World War II, will be buried in Quincy today. A double funeral, with full military honors, will be held Saturday with a solemn high mass at St. Ann's Church, Wollaston, at 9 A.M. Burial will be in Mt. Wollaston cemetery, Quincy.

The two sons of Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. Quinny of 14 Hummock street, North Quincy, entered the service together early in 1943. Richard went into the Air Force and James joined the 10th Mountain Infantry.

Richard was killed in a flight over Budapest, Hungary, April 13, 1944, and James died in action in Italy a year and two days later.

Both attended North Quincy High where Richard starred in basketball and baseball. James also attended Quincy high school, and was a lead man in the Fore River shipyard.

Besides their parents, they leave two brothers, Robert and Ralph Ryan, and a sister, Mrs. Dorothy Adams.

Double Funeral For Hero Brothers

The bodies of two Quinny brothers, Sgt. Richard J. Quinny, Jr., and Sgt. James P. Quinny, both killed in World War II, will be buried in Quincy today. A double funeral, with full military honors, will be held Saturday with a solemn high mass at St. Ann's Church, Wollaston, at 9 A.M. Burial will be in Mt. Wollaston cemetery, Quincy.

The two sons of Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. Quinny of 14 Hummock street, North Quincy, entered the service together early in 1943. Richard went into the Air Force and James joined the 10th Mountain Infantry.

Richard was killed in a flight over Budapest, Hungary, April 13, 1944, and James died in action in Italy a year and two days later.

Both attended North Quincy High where Richard starred in basketball and baseball. James also attended Quincy high school, and was a lead man in the Fore River shipyard.

Besides their parents, they leave two brothers, Robert and Ralph Ryan, and a sister, Mrs. Dorothy Adams.
