

OBITUARY

JOHN DANIELS

John Daniels, 58, of 2220 S. Woodstock st., who 25 years ago was widely known as a minor league baseball player, died yesterday afternoon at St. Agnes Hospital of injuries received Saturday when he was struck by a street car while crossing 20th st. near Porter.

The motorman of the car, John Fahey, of Pollock st. near 15th, said Daniels walked into the path of the trolley from the rear of a parked machine.

Daniels, who was engaged in the fish-bait business, played baseball with the old Southwestern Field Club, of this city, and later with the Binghamton and Utica teams of the Tri-State League. He was a shortstop and among baseball followers was known as "Scrap" Daniels. He was the father of seven children.

John Daniels obit

Clipped By:

timcopeland Sat, Dec 9, 2017

