Larry Archambeault Dies, Former Pro Hockey Player

Laurier Andre "Larry" Archam-beault, 62, a former professional hockey and baseball player, died last Wednesday in Shady Grove Hospital after suffering an apparent heart at-tack on Route 270 while driving to work at the Eastman Kodak Co. office in Rockville. He lived on 24th Avenue in Hyattsville.

An employee of Eastman Kodak for 29 years, Mr. Archambeault was an industrial engineer in the production department. He was to have retired last Friday.

Mr. Archambeault was born in Almyer, Ouebec, Canada, and moved during childhood to the Massena, N.Y., area. He excelled in hockey, baseball, football, basketball and swimming while attending Massena Central High School, from which he was graduated in 1937.

He declined a University of Minnesota hockey scholarship at the age of 18 to play professional hockey. Aleft defenseman, he played for the New York Rovers in 1938-39 and for the Baltimore Orioles of the Eastern Hockey League in 1939.

He next joined the Pittsburgh Hornets of the American Hockey League in 1940 and was chosen as Rookie of the Year in that league.

In 1941, Mr. Archambeault entered the Army Air Forces and was an administrator in the Air Inspections Group in Orlando, Fla. He also played and managed the Eglin Air Field baseball team in 1944 and 1945 and was named to the Orlando Army Air Forces team. That team participated in the National Semi-Pro Baseball Tournement in Wichita, Kan., but lost in the championship game. However, Mr. Archambeault was chosen a member of the all-American team.

He left service as a first lieutenant in 1946 and returned to the Pittsburgh Hornets early that year. He also shifted to the Hollywood Wolves of the Pacific Coast Hockey League that year and was injured shortly before helping the team get to the championship series, which it lost to the Vancouver Canucks.

Mr. Archambeault turned down cinnati Reds while playing with the Hollywood team during the playoffs. He was a catcher for the Lawrence Millionaires, a baseball team in the New England League, a minor eague affiliate, in the summers of 1946 and 1950. Mr. Archambeult again played for the Pittsburgh Hornets in 1947-48 and in 1948 played for the Washing-ton Lions of the Eastern Hockey League at Uline Arena here. He was traded to the Philadelphia Rockets in 1948 and played for them until the end of the season. He played for the Buffalo Bisons of the American Hockey League in the 1950-51 season and rejoined the Washington Lions. as captain of the team for the 1952-53

Mr. Archambeault retired from professional hockey in 1953 and began his career with Eastman Kodak.

In Hyattsville he was active in the Lewisdale Boys Club, St. Mark's Catholic Youth Organization, the Holy Name Society and the DeMatha High School Men's Club. He leaves his wife of 33 years, the former Theresa C. Donohoe; five sons, Laurier A. Jr. of Lanham, and Leonard J., Richard John P. and Martin J. of Hyattsville: three brothers, Conrad, of Massena, Roger, of Syracuse, N.Y. and Gerard, of New Port Richey, Fla.; and

Benjamin Sheares, Singapore President

SINGAPORE (UPI) - Singapore President Benjamin Sheares, 73, a world-renowned gynecologist who served 10 years as head of state, died yesterday after suffering a stroke on Friday.
Mr. Sheares served 2½ terms in the largely ceremonial post of president of the island republic although he was never a politician before his election in 1971.

Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew praised Mr. Sheares for his "application and self-discipline" and said he made "what could be a perfunctory duty into an interesting office, more of a challenge than a chore.'

Mr. Sheares, a Eurasian, reflected Singapore's multi-racial population and its drive for modernization. He was known for his unassuming dignity and disciplined intellect.

Mr. Sheares developed an innovative gynecological operation now used around the world and named for him.

He leaves his wife and three chil-

Get inside reports on national defense from John Fialka in The Star.

Can the U.S. Army fight? In the event of a national emergency, how long would it take the U.S. military to mobilize? These are some of the questions John Fialka has been answering in his investigative reports as The Star's Pentagon specialist. These reports have been of such import and merit that the military, itself, has used them in training programs.

"Nifty Nugget", a Fialka series on a simulated national mobilization exercise, was made part of a course at the Air Force War College and reprinted by the Annals of the Army War College. It also won for Fialka the $1,000 Worth Bingham Memorial Award.

Another recent Fialka series—"Can the U. S. Army Fight?—received first place in news series in the Maryland-Delaware-D.C. Press Association Editorial Contest, and the $500 award in the national Raymond Clapper Memorial Award's competition. When John Fialka writes, the military, and others, pay attention because he assembles information you van't find in a single source ampwhere but in The Stat. Under the Reagan administration, notional defense has been given a renewed emphasis. Now, more than ever, it is important to stay current on what shape the military is in and what effect Reagan's plans may have on the state of our national detense.

For a better understanding of national security affairs, read John Fishka's exclusive reports in The Star.
