#WHITESOXTALK 17h

White Sox players fondly remember... Former Chicago White Sox scout Gary Woods died unexpectedly on Thursday in his home in California. He was 60 years old.

Woods also spent nine seasons in the MLB, including his last four seasons with the Chicago Cubs. In 525 games he hit .243 with 13 home runs.

"That was surprising news to get, and certainly a damper to start things off with that. It was unfortunate. Gary was a real good teammate, a hard worker, obviously a former big leaguer, and he brought a special perspective to his evaluations. A lot of guys around here are in shock, including Robin, who talked to him a few days ago. He lived over by Robin and covered that area. That's still a shock to all of us.

Added manager Robin Ventura, who said he had recently spoke with Woods: "He's from my area. He had just told me that today. It's sad. I've known him quite a few years. Even before, when I was younger, he was a scout for our area for a long time with he White Sox. That's tough news, the first day, to get. It's sad, shocking, all that stuff. He was a great guy."

I believe he played in Toronto's inaugural game against the Sox in 1977 if I'm not mistaken. Condolences to his family and friends.
